Peonies

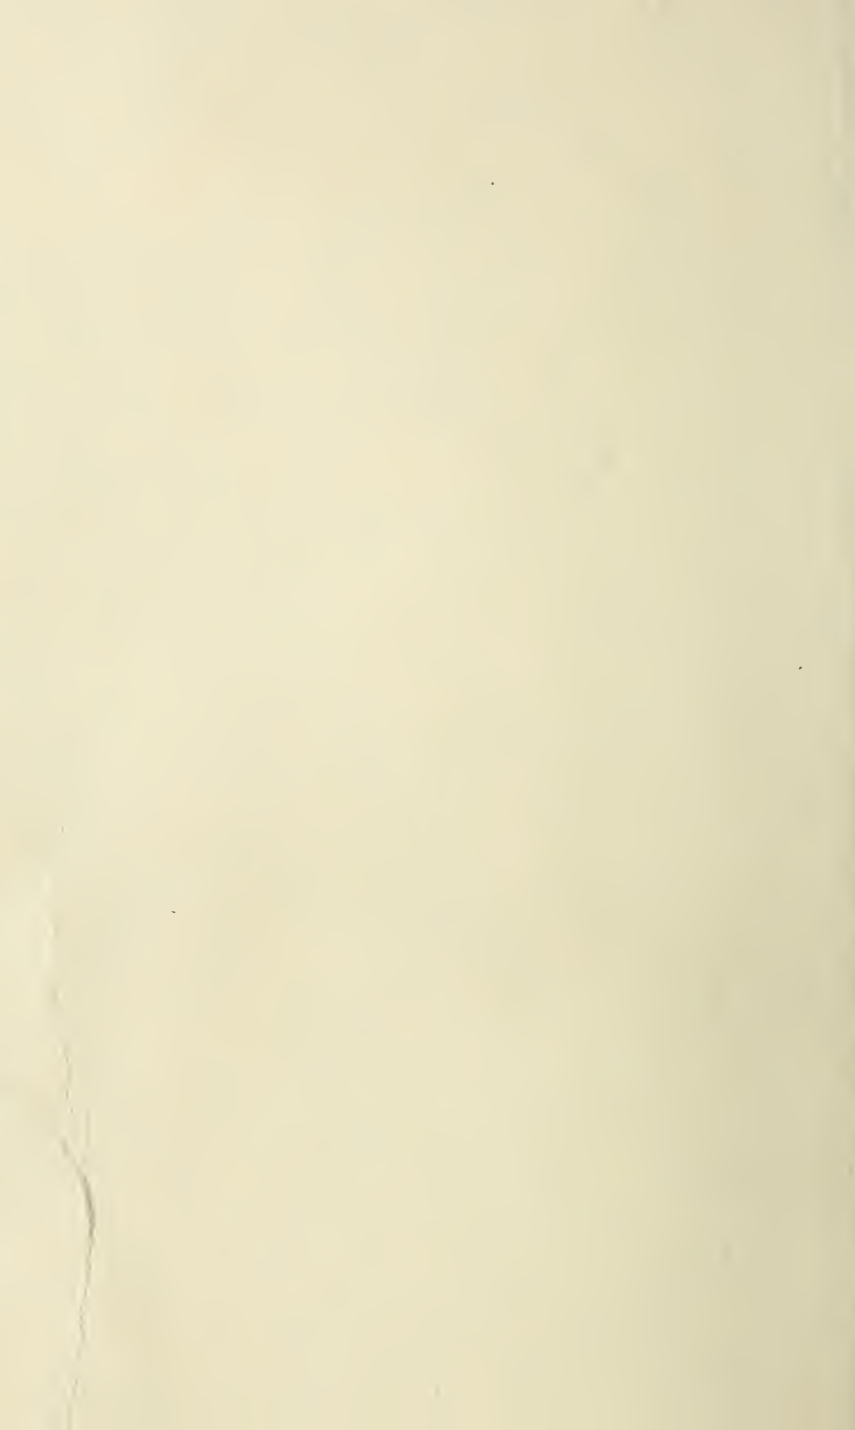

Last year about this time I sent out my first offer on ONE-EYE DIVISIONS OF RARE PEONIES at just one-third the price of strong one-year old roots. That offer sold for me in four weeks, every rare and high priced Peony I cared to dispose of.

This year I have said very little about divisions, because I really like to sell large one year old roots with five or more eyes. I cannot help thinking of the pleasure of the purchasers of these Peonies, when they open up their Express packages and find roots which they can easily make into three or more divisions. But now, at the end of the season, I find I have some plants, which while they do not measure up to my description of the one year plants I sell, yet are large enough to make one or two good divisions which will grow into excellent plants for next year. And so I am now issuing this list of FINE AND RARE PEONIES, which I will sell in divisions at the prices named.

Each division will have one or more eyes, and these divisions will be exactly the same kind of roots I am planting in my own garden to grow into plants which I will sell next September and November. In my own garden I plant Peonies until the ground freezes, and some of my one-eye divisions which I planted last November bloomed for me in June. If you order any of these divisions and wish me to send them Parcels Post, you may include twenty cents extra for each division, and I will not only prepay the postage but will also insure the delivery of the package. Express will probably be cheaper for you.

If I am not mistaken I have sold these ONE-EYE DIVISIONS, as I like to call them, in every state where Peonies will grow, with the exception of Delaware and Nevada, and so if you are wondering if they are worth while, I can probably give you the name of a purchaser in your own locality who can tell you whether or not he was pleased with the roots I sent to him. I know you will not forget to send him a stamped envelope for his reply.
